ATLANTIC.

The New York World, says The Times Correspondent in New York, publishes extracts from a pamphlet which the German Foreign Office is secretly circulating, entitled "Great Britain and Europe." This precious work is from the pen of Count Revention, and a translation has been made and "printed for private circulation only" among the Irish history as the Germans would like the Irish and the world to be the Germans would like the Irish and the world to view it. The work culminates in the following passages, which are interesting because they constitute an indirect admission that unless British sea power can be destroyed fighting for ber own existence. The condition will surely come sooner or later. The condition will surely come sooner or later. The condition sine gue men of that the cather in the destroyed in the supremacy. For as jong as Britain pairs the supremacy. For as jong as Britain pairs the waves humanity must remain her later. So long as Irestitation of the supremacy and remains a British Colony, or rather a citch fortress, Britain can at any time abut in your the whole of Northern and Eastern Europe in the deciment of Europe in Europe is to be free, edom depends on freedom of the seas, and edem of the seas.

THE FOREIGN OFFICE AND THE BLOCKADE.

THE BLOCKADE.

It is now very widely felt (says The Times) that the Foreign Office for a great number of years have given countenance to principles which threatened to rob our sea power of its most effective weapons in war. We know take of the dectrines of contraband and of the economic life of such enemies as Germany. The Foreign Office have been haunted all founders and the remains of their old theories, and the public, rightly or wrongly, believe and the cold hand of these ghosts have been haunted as the public, rightly or wrongly, believe and the public, rightly or wrongly, believe and the cold hand of these ghosts has consently paralysed the decision of the Governmenter the Premier's declaration made ten must commodities of any kind from reaching or awing Germany. he ago that we were resolved to pre-commodities of any kind from reaching or ing Germany." THE "EAST COAST OF KENT."

Is there really any military advantage, says The Times, in the portentous mystery which atill veils the official accounts of air raids on these islands! There were two such raids within twelve hours yesterday, one delivered in bright moonlight and the other at high noon. They were witnessed by large numbers of people, who know exactly where they took place. The enemy airmen were certainly under no illusions as to their whereabouts. Beetin is, no doubt, informed by this time, and in a fay or two we shall publish an accurate account of the locality from German sources. Then why make a mystery about it! We do not ask from mere curposity, for we are well tware of the facts. We ask for two practical wasons. The first is that a vague expression ke. ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN AND THE WAR.

SERMON IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

Preaching to a crowded congregation at Vestminster Abbey last right the Archbishop Dublin said the question "What shall it rout to gain the world and to lose one's soul" was a question for nations as well as for men. It was the great question with which the cataclysm of war had confronted the nations of the civilised world, and matter, and that nothing else need be weighed in the balance. That it profitted nothing at all to gain the whole world and lose one a roul was the answer of Belgium yesterday; it was the answer of Montenegro to-day. Better national death than peace at the price of shame and the degradation of the nation's smil. There were the two answers, and the only two, for to refuse to face the question was only possible for a nation without a soul to lose and the warning of Christ rang loud to only possible for a nation without a soul to lose and the warning of Christ rang loud the shall lose it. — for the way of the Cross was the only way of salvation for nations as for the same of was a hard saying, but it carried a week beginning to the content of the con

SPORTING NEWS. | "GRAND NATIONAL" SUBSTITUTE. EFFORTS TO REPRODUCE AINTREE COURSE. A Committee, consisting of Mesors, F. Catheari, R. Gore, Hon. A. Hardings, P. Whitaker, F. E. Withington, and C. E. Robinson, spent some time on Saturday in inspecting the proposed new course for the Racecourse Association Steeplechase in March. Amongst the changes from the previously published plan is the addition of a plan fence at a good 20 yards from the starting pend, and the secondaring state will be erreiched 150 yards from the committee of the pendick that first internal theoret passing the padick has first time. An additional fence will be built at the centre of the big bend after leaving the water. The third obstacle after passing the stands will be an open ditch. Should it be decided to require competions to jump the water twice, there will be thirty obstacles in the course of the AMBASSADOR FAILS IN CHIEF EVENT. Gatwick registered on Saturday another pro-bounced success, the attendance, notwithstanding the unpromising appearance of the weather during the early hours of the morning, being both large and representative, while the main quite rullified

For conspicuous gallantry and skill near Neuve Chapelle on the night of 11th-12th December, 1915.

He made a most successful and daring reconnaissance of the German trenches previous to a successful attack, crawling down the entire length of one trench to a point where it joined another, finding out the best points to attack and the weak spots in the wire. The auccess of the enterprise was largely due to his reconnaissance and subsequent gallant conduct in the trenches.
